SOLUTIONS WITHOUT BORDERS

Business Process Modeling (BPM)

BPM enables organizations to experiment with change before new processes are implemented.

Description

Streamline. It is a word that public organizations continue to hear as their budgets get stretched and expectations reach an all-time high. Meeting these challenges requires public sector organizations to quickly and efficiently streamline internal operations. Diminishing resources makes streamlining even more difficult to accomplish with little time to implement improved processes and even less time to test them.

The Plan

Delegata’s Business Process Modeling (BPM) component enables organizations to effectively experiment with change. We help you define improved processes and simulate the use of the new processes before any changes are implemented. Our approach is a fundamental shift in the ways that organizations improve their operations. Rather than just analyzing an organization from a vertical standpoint, BPM employs a horizontal business view, analyzing business processes that ebb and flow between organizational boundaries.

The Equity Elements

Delegata invested in auxiliary BPM components that allow gradual, but significant, improvements in business processes. We have a proven ability to effectively partner with our clients and offer customized value through specific deliverables, reusable models, and robust templates and tools.

The Benefits

Approaching BPM from an element-based perspective facilitates improved performance and enables key performance metrics to be effectively met. Client benefits include:

Benefit	Explanation
Speed	Through the implementation of structured solutions.
Risk Reduction	Through the application of a proven methodology, industry best practices, and a robust technical architecture for integration.
Cost Reduction	Through the significant reduction in development time and scope.
Value	By having the ROI model guide the implementation to achieve specific benefits.
Employee Productivity	By enabling streamlined business processes through service-oriented architecture.
Tighter Application Integration	Through a unified Web servicing approach to application deployment and service integration.
