SOLUTIONS WITHOUT BORDERS

Enterprise Data Systems (EDS)

Delegata's EDS solutions organize the configuration of components that address government-specific issues.

Description

Acquiring 'data' is easy. The challenge is acquiring applicable 'information'. Organizations spend millions of dollars on data collection; data that is often unused or lost. Simply moving the data to a central location does not ensure that it is usable, easily accessible, or even compatible. As the data used by an organization grows in volume and context, the ability to use it more effectively becomes increasingly difficult. This dilemma often manifests itself in lost investment opportunities and diminished strategic benefits.

The Approach

At Delegata, we understand the strategic impact of data issues. We approach enterprise data as a valuable asset and strive to ensure that all information initiatives consider the impact of its design. We also believe that strategic capabilities begin with small, incremental steps. As this approach is applied to the complexity of data management, the standards and platforms become the basis for plan development, implementation, and operations consistency.

The Solution

Delegata's Enterprise Data Systems (EDS) solutions organize the configuration of components that address government-specific issues. The most beneficial focus for Delegata's EDS approach is to help our clients put their data management goals into context. Whether you are solving small data issues or developing an enterprise-wide solution, Delegata helps to ensure that your investment is best applied to meet short-term requirements while protecting your opportunity to develop long-term value.

The Benefits

Your ability to meet data management and usability requirements can be significantly improved by leveraging the equity that Delegata built into our components. Through thoughtful technology application, our tools help to build core internal strengths, skills, and capabilities. They help decision makers turn data into actionable information and intelligence while reducing manual data gathering, analysis, and reporting. Delegata's EDS solutions help you gain control of your data and leverage it for significant benefits.
